

Protestants Disagree

by Douglas R. Johnson

July 31, 2007

There are probably a large number of items in the Catechism of the Catholic Church (CCC) which most or many Protestants disagree. Two examples are:

"Schism is the refusal of submission to the Roman Pontiff or of communion with the members of the Church subject to him." [CCC 2089]

"Basing itself on the mystery of the incarnate Word, the seventh ecumenical council at Nicaea (787) justified against the iconoclasts the veneration of icons - of Christ, but also of the Mother of God, the angels, and all the saints. By becoming incarnate, the Son of God introduced a new "economy" of images." [CCC 2131]

One approach would be to eliminate those items which are not accepted by all Christians. I believe that approach is contrary to the basic concept of learning.

Our approach, therefore will be to present the full teaching of the Catechism but include the fact there is disagreement and present a fair representation of the opposing position. We solicit Protestant comments which will be presented to all students.